Special Bulletin

Monday morning November 5, 2007 in Charlotte, NC NCHILB member James M. Liles met with Alan Tate and Co., several Home Inspectors and members of the real estate community ostensibly to clarify his proposed rules change. Mr. Liles chaired the meeting. During this meeting Alan Tate said the he would spend every penny of his political capital and financial resources to see that the proposed rule change passed.

This begs the question, was Mr. Liles acting as a state employee on state time and expense or promoting his own and his family's realtor interests? As for Alan Tate, does he really believe money makes the man and all North Carolina politicians are for sale?

There exists a picket permit for the Licensing Board office for this Friday, November 9th during their meeting, with proper publicity arranged. The permit is approved for forty people, but keep in mind the meeting is open to the public. Anyone who can picket should contact Home Inspector Bill Delamar the onsite coordinator at rescon@nc.rr.com. Appropriate signs will be provided.
